

“Creating Love for knowledge- Prewriting with artistic Precision”

Drawing lines using a paintbrush isn't just an artistic activity; it's a canvas for developing fine motor skills in children. As they dip the brush into vibrant colors and guide it across the paper, they embark on a journey of skill refinement. Each stroke hones their hand-eye coordination, allowing them to control the brush's movement to create straight lines, curves, and intricate patterns.

